

To help you complete this worksheet, use the Our Planet's Pieces book.

Pacific Islands

There are thousands of islands in the _____ Ocean. Most of the islands are very far away from any _____. They do not make up a continent. Some islands are very _____, but others are tiny piles of rock or sand that are only just above _____.

The Marshall Islands is a country made of dozens of _____.

Hawaii is a state in the United States. There are _____ on the islands.

The land and weather are different across the Pacific Islands. Many of the islands have white-sand _____ and swaying palm trees.

The imaginary line called the _____ goes through the Pacific Islands region.

New Guinea is the largest _____ in the Pacific region and the second largest on Earth.

Easter Island is famous for its large stone _____. People carved them hundreds of years ago. More than 600 of them are on the island.

Some islands have hot, thick _____ or snow covered mountain peaks. Animals, like this Hawaiian honeycreeper bird, live on many of the islands.